Lewis Latimer: Inventor

For every job, there are different tools you might need. A chef might need a good knife, some pots and pans, and an oven. A construction worker usually needs a hard hat, a tool belt, a hammer and some nails.

We learned all about Latimer's work as an inventor. Let's fill the briefcase below with all the tools he might need for his job and label them.

Think about:

- What type of tools he might use for different parts of his job? They can be more typical (like a pen and notebook) or quite job-specific (a 3D printer).
- What might he bring for lunch? That could go in here too. Get creative!
