OBJECTIVE: PROTECT OUR POLLINATORS

W.O.W. Agent, now that you have your official Climate Action Hero Uniform, you can proceed to the next objective... protecting our pollinators! Follow the instructions below to create your own Seed Bombs to make plants grow in your own backyard! MATERIALS

- Construction paper
- Bowl
- Water
- Blender
- Wildflower seeds

WOW-TO

TOP SECRET

Step 1: Start by tearing up the paper and putting it into a bowl.

Step 2: Cover the shredded paper with water and leave it to absorb for about half an hour.

Step 3: Put the wet paper mixture into a blender and blitz until it forms a wet pulp. If needed, you can add a little more water.

Step 4: Pour pulp back into the bowl, add your seeds and mix thoroughly.

Step 5: Scoop up a pinch of the pulp and seed mixture (around the size of a large marble) and form it into a ball by rolling the mixture gently between the palms of your hands.

Step 6: You can plant your seed bombs in the ground right away (follow any directions that came with the seeds) or let them dry and save for later. You'll just need to give them a good soak before planting them.

OPERATION: SAVE THE PLANET

Birds do a lot of heavy lifting for protecting and spreading seeds! By giving them the food they need, we can help fuel a whole ecosystem! Learn how to re-use your empty toilet paper tubes to create your own backyard birdfeeder!

MATERIALS

- Toilet paper roll
- Nut butter
- Bird seed
- String/yarn

WOW-TO

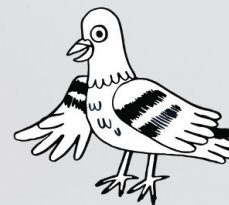

Step 1: Slather some nut butter all over the outside of the toilet paper roll.

Step 2: Pour about a cup of birdseed onto a plate and roll the nut butter covered toilet roll in the bird seed. Roll until completely covered.
